New ownership for Washtime Industries

Greeley, Colo. – Washtime Industries Inc., a 16-year-old distributorship of commercial and industrial laundry equipment, is under new ownership and operating from two Colorado locations – Greeley and Glenwood Springs.

In June of 2007, Tom Millman purchased Washtime Industries after serving as a sales representative of the company for two years. Washtime Industries is a full-service distributorship providing laundry equipment parts, equipment and service to the coin and card-operated laundries and the on-premise laundry markets throughout Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

“In order to serve customers more efficiently, we have qualified service technicians throughout our territory to assist with any service-related needs, and if we don’t have a part in stock, we assure our customers next-day delivery,” says Millman

Millman, who completed a 20-year career in law enforcement in 2005, said he was eager to get into the laundry business and eventually become a business owner. “Being a business owner is incredibly exciting and rewarding,” he said. “My transition has been made that much easier by the helping hands at Continental Girbau – they have given me endless hours of support and trust to carry the exceptional Continental product line.”
